Dear Tribal Member,

I want to wish you many blessings as you go out hunting and fishing. These activities are some of the most ancient of rights we have as Coeur d'Alene People, bestowed upon us by the Creator when He placed us in these lands. They are rights that have been fought for and protected by generations of great Coeur d'Alene leaders. Today, they are expressions of our identity, culture, and sovereignty. I hope your outings are as fulfilling for you and your families' hearts as they are your taste buds.

I would like to encourage everyone to remember our laws and regulations as you are out harvesting. These laws exist, first and foremost, to protect you as a hunter/fisher, to protect our animals and the environment they call home, and to protect our many landowners. Each of these components must be respected in order to create a thriving environment where hunting and fishing can be celebrated for generations to come. These laws allow us to continue to pass down the same values we have received from our ancestors.

You may contact our Fisheries and Wildlife Programs if you need any additional information for your outings. Our role in the tribal government is to serve you as tribal members and we take that role seriously. In the meantime, enjoy the land and its offerings. Pass on the traditions of your family to your children and don't forget your elders. It is a great time to be Coeur d'Alene!

Chief Allan Coeur d'Alene Tribal Chairman The Coeur d'Alene Indian Tribe maintains exclusive jurisdiction to regulate the hunting and fishing by others. The Tribe and its members retain the right to hunt and fish without state regulation in the total area originally enclosed in the Reservation proclaimed by the President of the United States in 1873. All wildlife, including all wild animals, wild birds, and fish within the Coeur d'Alene Reservation and other areas over which the Tribe exercises authority are the exclusive property of the Coeur d'Alene Tribe.

This pamphlet contains the Coeur d'Alene Tribal member hunting and fishing regulations for the Coeur d'Alene Reservation and the Ceded Area. The establishment of licensing policies and procedures for persons fishing or hunting on the Coeur d'Alene Reservation is pursuant to Coeur d'Alene Tribal Code Chapter 20. It is the responsibility of the hunter/angler to be in compliance with the regulations in this pamphlet. Any violation of these regulations may be subject to criminal and/or civil sanctions under Chapters 3 and 4 of Coeur d'Alene Tribal Code.

The following regulations have been developed with the intent of ensuring the long term health and stability of the fish and wildlife resources on the Coeur d'Alene Reservation. These resources must remain available for subsistence, religious, cultural and recreational purposes.

Section 8. Designated Hunters

An enrolled member of the Coeur d'Alene Tribe may apply for written authorization from the Wildlife Program to appoint one person as his or her designated hunter. An authorized designated hunter shall be allowed to harvest big game from all Tribal hunting areas in order to provide for the subsistence needs of the applicant, as long as such hunting activities are consistent with all aspects of the Tribal hunting and fishing Code.

All applications for designated hunting are to be filed in person by the requestor at the Wildlife office. Designated hunting shall be restricted to established hunting seasons only. No designated hunting shall be allowed when hunting seasons are closed, unless approved through a special events application.

Only enrolled members of the Coeur d'Alene Tribe are eligible to serve as a designated hunter. No designated hunter is to maintain permanent possession of game harvested while hunting under the title of "designated hunter". Persons requesting a permit for wakes and family emergencies may be exempted from the advanced notification requirements, pending review by the Wildlife Program and the Tribal Council. Failure to provide advanced notification may result in the rejection of an application.

Applications will be made available through the Wildlife Program office. The Wildlife Program shall review and approve any application filed during established hunting seasons. All applications for out-of-season special event request shall be filed with the Wildlife Program. Once the Wildlife Program has reviewed the application for completeness and ascertained that the application meets the minimum requirements necessary to be granted a special event permit, the permit shall be submitted to the Tribal Chairman, by the Wildlife Program, for final authorization. Harvest report forms are required for all Special Events Applications. Failure to complete and return a harvest report form will result in the withholding of all future ceded, designated hunter and special events tags/permits for the applicant and/or hunter.

KNOW YOUR INVASIVE SPECIES

NORTHERN PIKE

ESOX LUCIUS

Elongated body shape with large, wide mouth with sharp teeth. Dorsal fin far back, near the tail fin and a grey/green body with rows of pale oval spots

What are they?

Northern pike are non-native predators of native fish in the state of Idaho. They reproduce prolifically and primarily prey on fish smaller than themselves, including juveniles of other species.

Why are they considered invasive?

Northern pike are recognized as an invasive, prohibited species. By definition, this includes species that are not indigenous to Tribal waters and are considered to have severe and deleterious impacts on resources that are important to the Tribe.

They grow rapidly, sometimes reach a foot in length during their first year of life, and can attain adult sizes in excess of 40 pounds.

Northern pike are highly piscivorous (fish-eating), even at young ages, and can consume prey that are 75% of their body length.

Adult female Northern pike can produce up to 250,000 eggs which can give rise to a rapid increase in population size.

Northern pike are highly adaptable and are tolerant of a wide range of environmental conditions.

Why should I care?

Northern pike have been shown to seriously reduce native fish populations, especially salmonids, when introduced into waters beyond their historical range.

The threat of Northern pike to native fish populations has been recognized regionally, and Northern pike is currently considered a prohibited species by certain management agencies like the Coeur d'Alene Tribe and the State of Washington.

It is unlawful to have a live Northern pike in possession when on the Reservation or on tribally managed waters of Coeur d'Alene Lake. CDA Resolution 125(2020), dated 10/10/20.

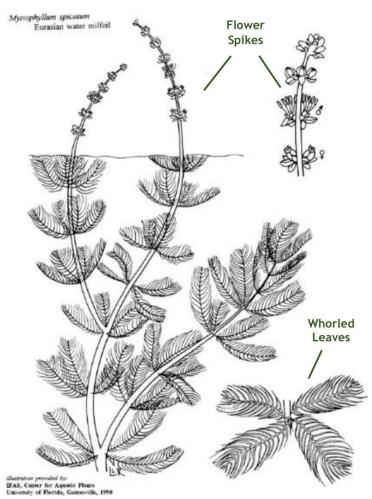

What can I do?

Anglers are encouraged to harvest any Northern pike that are captured in tribal waters.

KNOW YOUR INVASIVE SPECIES

EURASIAN WATERMILFOIL

MYRIOPHYLLUM SPICATUM

The leaves have a distinctive feather like appearance with between 14 to 20 leaflet pairs. During the summer, its pinkish flower spikes can be seen sticking above the water surface by a few inches.

What is it?

Eurasian watermilfoil is a non-native, submersed plant with long stems sometimes growing to the water surface. When this plant grows to the surface it can create dense mats that present a nuisance to boating and swimming. The dense mats can shade out and displace important native vegetation.

It was first discovered in the late 1800's in North America. Eurasian watermilfoil is on the Idaho State Noxious Weed list. It spreads easily via plant fragments moving from one waterbody to another. Plant fragments on boat trailers are an important and preventable means of spread for this plant.

Why should I care?

When Eurasian watermilfoil creates dense surface mats, it impedes boating and swimming, creating a major nuisance. It is difficult and expensive to control once established. Additionally, these dense mats have been found to reduce waterfront property values because of the nuisance they create.

Non-native, invasive vegetation displaces native vegetation that is locally adapted and serves an important role in aquatic ecosystems. Native aquatic plants provide important habitat and food to both fish and wildlife.

What can I do?

- Always clean, drain, and dry boating and fishing gear, especially when moving between different water bodies. Don't forget to check your boat, boat trailer, live well, bilge, waders, muck boots, fishing gear, and even sandals.
- Always stop at designated boat / watercraft check stations for inspection. These check stations are critical in stopping the movement of invasive species. Preventing establishment is the most cost effective way to control invasive species.
- If you see an unusual plant or animal, say something.
 The chances of successfully controlling an invasive species improve dramatically with early detection.
 Please report sightings to local fish and wildlife offices.

Flowering Rush

Flowering Rush is an invasive aquatic plant that can spread by seed, bulbils and rhizome fragments. It is an emergent, aquatic, perennial that grows in a range of fresh water habitats. Plants have a cylindrical stalk, up to 5 ft tall, ending in a flat-topped flower cluster with 20 to 50 light pink flowers. Featuring thin, upright leaves that may be twisted in growth and reach 3 feet or more, the plant can be emergent, submersed or floating.

Hydrilla

Hydrilla verticillata

Hydrilla forms canopies that often shade out native vegetation. Extensive single species stands provide poor habitat for fish and other wildlife. Once established, it destroys freshwater recreational opportunities by forming surface mats. It is a submersed perennial herb, growing rooted to the bottom, in either still or flowing water.

Curly Leaf Pondweed

Potamogeton crispus

Curly-leaf pondweed is an invasive plant that forms surface mats, interfering with aquatic recreation. Dense colonies can restrict access to docks and sport fishing. It grows entirely underwater except for the flower stalk which rises above the water. It has distinctly wavyedged, crispy olive-green to redbrown leaves.

Yellow Floating Heart

Yellow floating heart forms dense mats of vegetation in water and negatively impacts fish and wild-life habitat, recreation activities and water quality. An aquatic, bottom-rooted perennial with leaves and flowers on stalks that are floating on the water's surface, this plant is found in slow moving rivers, lakes, reservoirs, ponds and swamps.

These invasive aquatic species are non-native and can out compete our native species in Coeur d'Alene Lake and surrounding water bodies. Their spread is detrimental to our aquatic habitat, cultural species, and fisheries. Please help in controlling these when found. Report or get control information by calling the phone number of choice below.

Protect our waters.Before entering & when leaving waterbodies:

- CLEAN: All equipment that has come into contact with a body of water by removing all visible native and non-native plants, algae or mud from shoes, waders, life vests, boat hulls and engines, trailers and other gear.
- → DRAIN: Any accumulated water from boats or gear, including water used in cleaning, back into the lake, stream or other waterbody from which it came.
- RINSE AND DRY: All surfaces should be rinsed with potable water and all boats and equipment left to dry fully before using again.

mollusks that colonize lakes and rivers. Their preferred habitats include the calm waters upstream of dams. Quagga mussels are usually tan to white and larger than zebra mussels

New Zealand Mudsnails Potamopyrgus antipodarum

New Zealand mud snails tiny (less than 6 mm) aquatic snails that are adaptable to diverse climates and environmental conditions. They are found in freshwater and brackish environments.

Virile Cravfish Virile Crayfish vary in color, ranging from a light- to olive-brown body with dark brown markings on each abdominal segment. Upper walking legs and chelae (the pincerlike claws) can be bluish. Tips of chelae are orange. Individuals up to 13.1 cm carapace length have been collected. They are found in streams with moderate flow and turbidity, abundant cover, muddy, sandy, or rocky substrate and stable water levels.

Section 17. Transportation Proxy Information

The purpose of this transportation proxy is to protect, while in transit, the transporter, hunter and their property. This document is for the sole use of transporting fish and/or wildlife from one location to another by either a Tribal member or Non-tribal member.

When utilizing the Tribe's Fish and Wildlife Transportation Proxy the hunter must complete the document below by identifying the species harvested, sex of animal, location and date of harvest, member's tribal ID number or tag # and the nature of the animal while being transported (is the animal whole, halved or quartered).

If there are more fish or wildlife being transported, please list them in the space provided in the "Other Fish/Game" location of the Proxy Statement: i.e. 3 Chinook salmon, 2 Cutthroat trout and 4 grouse.

If one person is transporting fish or wildlife for more than one hunter, each hunter must use a Proxy Statement for their animal(s).
